

Position: Gate Automation Engineer

Posted 21st June 2010

Due to a continued and controlled expansion we have a vacancy for an experienced gate automation engineer. Skills should include hanging and levelling, welding, electrical connections, fault finding.

Experience of came equipment would be an advantage. The vast majority of our installations include civil works so you should be prepared to get your hands dirty. Our company philosophy is that the customer is our number one priority so you should be prepared to go that extra yard to ensure satisfaction.

This is not a nine to five job and whilst the vast majority of our installations are within a 70 mile radius of oxford you should be prepared to travel as and when required. We offer a competitive salary depending on experience. A fully equipped company van will be provided along with company credit card.
